LOWELL IS ELECTED HARVARD'S PRESIDENT

Dr. Eliot Retires After Forty Years of Service. New President Confers Degrees.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 7.—Abbott Lawrence Lowell was inaugurated president of Harvard University yesterday with ceremonies of a dignity in harmony with the traditions of America's oldest institution for higher education.

In the presence of a great assemblage of educational, civil and military and naval dignitaries, Prof. Lowell accepted the insignia of office, borne for 40 years by Charles William Eliot, his immediate predecessor, and was proclaimed officially as Harvard's twenty fourth president.

With the symbols of office in his hand and determination written on his countenance, Abbott Lawrence Lowell seated himself yesterday in the president's chair of Harvard University and from it he proclaimed his policies and distributed the celebration gifts of the university with lavish hand to thirty of the many men of letters who came from various parts of the world to pay him tribute.

For Intercollegiate Sports.

The inauguration scene was laid beneath the elms of the college for an assemblage of more than 5,000 persons. Later in the day the alumni pledged its fealty to the new president and gave an inspiring and enthusiastic "God speed" to the president emeritus, Charles William Eliot, who as president of the Alumni Association delivered what was generally regarded as his valedictory.

No leader of a great educational institution ever received greater homage from his fellow-men of learning and no new aspirant for intellectual leadership ever began his career with more loyal inspiration.

In outlining his policies, President Lowell declared himself in favor of men learning one thing well, and something of everything. He placed himself on the side of intercollegiate sports as the only striking occasion for the display of college solidarity.

Policies Unlike Eliot's.

He also stated his belief in the segration of the freshmen and of the drawing together of the ties among the upper classmen. And finally he differed radically from some of the policies of his immediate predecessor.

Although these two men, the new head and the retiring leader, dominated the inaugural celebration, the grand parade of scholars, guests and alumni through the college yard to the stage in the morning and the massing of the variegated hoods and gowns on the stage in Memorial Hall in the afternoon, gave a brilliancy to the scene which will last long in the annals of Harvard.

The parade was vastly impressive, headed by Ambassador Bryce of Great Britain and several other English scholars in their scarlet gowns, while behind them came the scarcely less subdued academic garbs of the German, French, Austrian, Danish and Cuban scholars. American universities and colleges also were well represented.

Taft Sends Congratulations.

It is forty years since the yellow charter, the silver key and the gold seal of Harvard University have been brought out into the sunlight.

The distribution of the gifts of the university formed an impressive scene.

In the afternoon many alumni meetings were held in Memorial Hall.

Telegrams of appreciation and felicitation were read from President Taft, the Harvard Association at John Harvard House, Stratford-on-Avon, from the Minister of Education of Prussia and from Adolphus Busch of St. Louis, who announced that he had increased his gift to the building fund of the Germanic Museum to $150,000.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 6, 1909.—To President A. Lawrence Lowell: I greatly regret my inability to convey personally by congratulations to you as president of Harvard University. I sincerely hope that you will enjoy a long and successful administration in the leadership of the movement of extending and widening the popular influence of the American universities.

(Signed.) "WILLIAM H. TAFT."

Many Degrees Conferred.

President Arthur L. Hadley of Yale said yesterday all educators were Harvard men and that all other American universities were children of Harvard.

One of the most emphatic and enthusiastic addresses of the afternoon was that of President Edmund Janes James of the University of Illinois, who was introduced as one who stood for principal results as attained by educational institutions under State control.

The congratulations and best wishes of the Alumni Association as a body, which were extended by Governor Wilson of Kentucky, closed the Memorial Hall meeting.

A symphony concert in Sander's Theatre and a student's jollification within the walls of the great stadium across the river completed one of the brightest pages in Harvard's history.

Among the men upon whom honorary degrees were conferred are:

Doctor of laws, James Bryce, British ambassador to the United States; Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Columbia University; Edwin Alderman, president of the University of Virginia; Ira Remsen, president of Johns Hopkins University; Henry Pratt Judson, president of the University of Chicago; Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell University; Edmund James James, president of the University of Illinois.

GREAT AMOUNT COTTON STORED AT ALACHUA

Hustling Alachua, which is one of the best little cities in the county, and which is considered the best cotton market in Eastern Florida, is just at the present time well stocked with cotton, which the people are holding for better prices.

Although the acreage was fully as large as it has been in former years, the yield has not been one-third. This makes a great difference in the cotton situation and the two large ginneries located at that point have had only about half of their time occupied in ginning the staple.

There are now upwards of some fifteen hundred bales of cotton stored in that section, and the farmers who are wise to the fact that such a short crop exists are holding for better prices, while some of the smaller planters are disposing of the same and have received satisfactory prices.

A number of outside buyers have been there and have made prices on the cotton submitted, but the largest buyer in the place, who probably handles more than anyone else, is C. A. Williams, and he stated to the reporter that he had purchased and paid for something like $10,000 worth of cotton during the past few days, but all of this was not confined to Alachua.

The Consolidated Ginnery, which is a plant fully as large as any to be found in the State, and the other ginnery there are both fully able to handle all of the output, and the manner in which they handle the cotton has made it bring more in the lint, for they are noted for the long staple that their gins produce.

THERE WILL BE A HOT OLD TIME IN NEW YORK

William Randolph Hearst Will Again Head the Opposition to Tammany Hall Candidates.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—William Randolph Hearst, once defeated for mayor of this city by George B. McClellan, and later defeated by Charles E. Hughes for Governor of the State, was nominated for mayor last night at a mass meeting of 4,000 of his admirers at Cooper Union. This action was taken despite his authoritative statement Tuesday evening that he would not be a candidate. Resolutions were adopted directing that a committee of five be appointed to take steps for the naming of an entire city, county and borough ticket, which will be placed in nomination by petition.

Last night's meeting was called, according to its leaders, with a view to showing Mr. Hearst that opinion among his followers in the old independent league was so strongly in favor of his running again, as to override even his positive declaration.

When, after a half-dozen "opening" speeches, he was formally nominated for mayor, the meeting rose to its feet after the approved manner of political conventions, and the demonstration which followed lasted twenty minutes before the chairman's hoarse calls for order could be heard.

The principal address of the evening was made by Williams Ivens, who was the Republican candidate for mayor against Hearst and McClellan four years ago.

"I came here as a Republican and former political opponent of Mr. Hearst," said Mr. Ivens. "I ran against Mr. Hearst four years ago and would then have regarded his installation in the New York mayoralty as a great public calamity. But for four years now I have watched him, and I am now convinced that there is not a more sincere, more public-spirited or more capable gentleman and citizen before the public than Mr. Hearst."

"Justice Gaynor is carrying the banner for the gang," he said. "He is the stalking horse for Tammany. He leads the vilest ticket that has ever been placed before New York. In spite of the judicial position, he has for months devoted himself to a cleverly framed and adroitly executed conspiracy, whereby the two beneficiaries are to be the judge on one hand, and the band of political criminals on the other."

Horrible Death of a Levy County Boy at Inverness

The Citrus County Chronicle gives the following account of the death of a Levy county boy: "A horrible accident occurred here yesterday morning (Sept. 30.) about 7:30 that cast a gloom over the entire community. C. C. Hale, lumber inspector for West, Coffee & Co., at that time met his death in a peculiar and distressing manner. Mr. Hale was engaged in checking up a carload of lumber, and was inside the car. Three loaded cars of lumber were turned loose at the mill to run down the spur and intersect with the Coast Line. A freight train of the main line was headed in on the spur to pick up the lumber cars, when they collided. The lumber in the car where Mr. Hale was at work slid to the front, crushing and somewhat mutilating his body and also breaking his neck.

"The car was unloaded and the body was found, showing that death was instantaneous. As the Coast Line train was running at good speed, and the cars loaded with lumber were also running fast, the impact was something terrible.

"Deceased was a young man whose parents reside in Williston, where the body was taken for burial yesterday. His sister, Mrs. J. Q. Thompson, lives here. He was a member of the W. O. W., and had made many warm friends in Inverness."

Editor of Waycross Herald Is Killed By a Live Wire

WAYCROSS, Ga., Oct. 7.—A. P. Perham, Jr., editor of The Waycross Herald, was instantly killed in an electric storm of violence, that swept over this place yesterday, destroying telephone and telegraph wires and throwing live wires about the streets.

A number of horses, some of them fine animals, met instant death in contact with the wires, while danger was everywhere. That no one met death except Mr. Perham is regarded as surprising.

Mr. Perham was on the street car near the office of the Southern Express Company when a wire dangling from a pole struck him. He dropped to the street dead. Mr. Perham was one of the best-known men of this section, having been in the newspaper business here for years.

Army Men Will Be Taught How to Fly in Aeroplanes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—With the removal from Fort Myers, Va., yesterday of the Wright aeroplane owned by the Government, to the new aerodrome at College Park, Maryland, the work of teaching the signal corps officers of the army was begun in earnest. Wilbur Wright is the instructor.

Yesterday's lesson consisted of primer worker, that of packing and reassembling the aeroplane. Today the more advanced lesson of soaring in the air may be attempted. As yesterday, Lietenant Lahm, who is in charge of the signal corps' aeroplane detachment, will be the pupil today.

By 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning the aeroplane had been loaded on a wagon at Fort Myers, and the journey to Colelge Park was begun. The machine was only partially dismantled. Mr. Wright and Lieuts. Lahm and Humphreys were awaiting for the machine when the wagon arrived at Colege Park at 1:30 o'clock. The work of assembling began at once, with Mr. Wright superintending the job. About the first thing learned by the enlisted men of the corps, who were helping, was that an aeroplane is a delicate machine.

"Hold on there," commanded Mr. Wright, at one stage, as three men started to pry of the boards of an oddly-shaped box. "Just loosen the screws at the bottom and the top comes off." The box contained the motor, the most vital part of the aeroplane.

Lieut. Lahm predicted that the machine would not be reassembled completely until after several hours of labor today. The probability of a flight early this morning was out of the question, he thought, although one might be attempted later in the day. Efforts are being put forth to make rapid progress, and Mr. Wright and his pupils will remain at College Park over night, while the trials are going on, it is said.

Gompers' Trip Will Result Benefits Labor Federation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—"Without question the visit of President Samuel Gompers to Europe will mean the establishment in the very near future of an international federation of labor, the autonomy of the trade union movement of each country being ordained and guaranteed," said Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor yesterday, after dictating a wireless message to be delivered to Mr. Gompers on board the trans-Atlantic French liner "LaSavoie" now in mid-ocean headed for New York.

This message informed Mr. Gompers that the court of appeals of the District of Columbia had not handed down its decision in the case of his appeal in the contempt proceedings in the Bucks Stove case, in which Mr. Gompers had been sentenced to imprisonment for twelve months.

Mr. Gompers is expected to reach New York on October 9. He will arrive in Washington next Tuesday evening, and will be given a reception at the union station here. In the evening a parade will be organized in his honor, in which it is said 25,000 workmen will participate.

ESKIMOS WERE WARNED NOT TO LOOK FOR COOK

AND PEARY'S ACTION NEARLY CAUSED DEATH OF FORMER.

So Dr. Cook Says in a Letter Written to Explorer Bernier of Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 7.—Captain Bernier, of the Canadian steamer "Arctic," made public a letter written to him by Dr. Frederick A. Cook on May 23, and delivered to Captain Bernier on September 1 at Upernavik, Greenland.

Peary Accused of Stealing Supplies.

The letter opens:

"My Dear Captain: I have to write you the first letter after having been sealed behind ice barriers for two years. It was your supplies, so kindly left in charge of Mr. Whitney, which aided me greatly in getting to Upernavik. All my other property has been taken by Peary under the guise of a relief station for Dr. Cook.

"Murphy, the man in charge of the station, however, was instructed not to engage in any relief efforts, not to allow Eskimos to cross and search until March of the following year, 1909. My large stores of supplies and my station were used for barter with natives to satisfy Peary's commercial greed.

"Fortunately, we were able to work out our problem without relief efforts except as you offered. We have pushed into the Boreal center and picked up the polar prize, but the effort was dangerous beyond conception.

"The splendid assistance which you have given and the liberality of the Canadian government in sending the ship is a happy contrast to the hindrance and injustice of one of my own countrymen."

The Journey to the Pole.

"Starting from Annotook on February, 19, 1908, we crossed Ellesmere Land, pushed along its western coast to the polar sea, feeding ten Eskimos and 103 dogs en route on musk oxen and bears.

"From 82 north I started with but two young Eskimos and twenty-six dogs, pulling two sleighs and supplies for eighty days. The ice was fine after crossing 84 degrees. Crocker's Land was sighted and passed, and a new land found to the north of it extending to 85 degrees. Beyond, no land was seen. The pole was reached April 22, 1908. The return was forced slightly westward on the northern route, but about 85 degrees we drifted east and south. Below 84 we had drifted with an active pack.

"We were helplessly carried to the west, unable to reach our caches along Nansen Sound. We were pushed into Prince Gustave sea with food and fuel exhausted. Still unable to press eastward, we went with the ice to the south, food and fuel now exhausted. Polar bears came to our rescue as life-savers. We then went into Wellington channel, hoping to be able to reach whalers in Lancaster Sound, but we were soon stopped by failing food supplies and young small ice. With no game, this short route to an early ship was no longer possible, and to satisfy the pangs of hunger we worked to Jones' Sound.

Forced Into Winter Camp.

"Here, after a long run of hard adventure by boat and sledge, a cruel necessity forced us into winter camp in September at Cape Sparbo, without fuel or food, ammunition or winter clothing, with no dogs, no guns. Our situation was almost hopeless, but fortune came our way. Bows and arrows, harpoons, lances and other implements were made. The musk oxen and bear were taken with lines. The lance and knife secured us small game. Foxes were trapped, walruses and seals attacked and secured in our little folding canvas boat. An underground camp was built and the winter of 1908-1909 passed with a taste of everything save fresh meat.

"For we had not a morsel of civilized food, not even salt. A new equipment was devised and as soon as the sun of 1909 rose over the hills of North Devon we started for Annotook in February, 1909, dragging dried musk oxen meat as food and melted tallow as fuel for thirty days, on our sledges. Deep snow, bad ice, open return slow and arduous. We reached Annotook after a run of hard luck on April 5. Here we were met by Whitney only to find that Peary's men had misused our station with its equipments over the protest of Mr. Whitney. We enjoyed good health at all times."

ARE MICROBES IN YOUR SCALP?

It Has Been Proved That Microbes Cause Baldness.

Professor Unna of Hamburg, Germany, and Dr. Sabourand, the leading French dermatologist, discovered that a microbe causes baldness. Their theory has time and again been amply verified through research experiments carried on under the observation of eminent scientists. This microbe lodges in the Cebur, which is the natural hair oil, and when permitted to flourish it destroys the hair follicles and in time the pores entirely close, and the scalp gradually takes on a shiny appearance. When this happens there is no hope of the growth of hair being revived.

Dandruff is a contagious disease, which is largely due to a destructive microbe, which when left to pursue its course causes itching scalp, falling hair and baldness. Dandruff is caused by the microbe affecting the glands which produce the sebaceous matter, which latter then unnaturally dries up and scales off.

We have a remedy which will, we honestly believe, remove dandruff, exterminate the microbe, promote good circulation in the scalp and around the hair roots, tighten and revitalize the hair roots and overcome baldness, so long as there is any life left in the hair roots.

We back up this statemnt with our own personal guarantee that this remedy called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will be supplied free of all cost to the user if it fails to do as we state.

It will frequently restore gray and faded hair to its original color, providing loss of color has been caused by disease; yet it is in no sense a dye. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic accomplishes these results by making every hair root, follicle and pigment gland strong and active, and by stimulating a natural flow of coloring pigment throughout the hair cells.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is entirely free from grease or sediment, is exceedingly pleasant to use and will not gum the hair or permanently soil the clothing or pillows.

We exact no obligations or promises—we simply ask you to give it a thorough trial and if not satisfied tell us and we will refund the money you paid us for it. Two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it in Gainesville only at our store—The Rexall Store. J. W. McCollum & Co.

LINCOLN'S ANECDOTE IS REVIVED BY MAN'S DEATH.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Oct. 7.—The death is announced here of Theodore W. Kennedy, who was fond of relating an experience he once had with President Abraham Lincoln.

When the Civil War began, Mr. Kennedy was first sergeant of Company B, 13th New York Infantry. Upon word reaching New York that his regiment was not to go to the front, young Kennedy started for Washington with a letter of introduction to President Lincoln, from Mayor George Opdyke. For ten days he hung around the White House but he did not reach the President. On the morning of April 30, 1862, young Kennedy passed the guard, walked to President Lincoln's room and knocked on the door.

"Come in," said the President, who had not yet had his breakfast and was wearing his slippers. Kennedy handed the letter of introduction to Lincoln. The President complimented the young man on his enthusiasm and talked for nearly an hour with him.

Then he wrote notes to the secretary of war and General Wadsworth, requesting them to do what they could for the nervy New York youth. These notes were in the possession of Mr. Kennedy at the time of his death.

UNIVERSITY ELEVEN VS. GAINESVILLE TIGERS

BOTH ELEVENS ARE IN FINE CONDITION.

The University of Florida football season opens this afternoon, when the Yellow and Blue will meet the Gainesville Tigers on the local gridiron this afternoon at 3:30.

This contest has attracted considerable attention among the local lovers of the game, and there will undoubtedly be a large and enthusiastic crowd out this afternoon to cheer the favorites on to victory. Both teams have been practicing hard for the last couple of weeks for this contest and are trained to put up a fast and stubbornly-fought battle.

The University eleven, under the direction of Coach Pyles, is considerably strengthened this season by the addition of several experienced men, who have played with larger colleges and know the game thoroughly. The team is heavier and faster this season, and they will undoubtedly win laurels this year never enjoyed before by the University of Florida.

The Gainesville Tigers, under the direction of Jimmie Shands, have been putting in strenuous practice for the past three weeks and are on their mettle. They thoroughly understand the game at all stages and are fast and willing to mix matters with the best of them. When they line up this afternoon the University squad will have a tough proposition to meet, and the Tigers are confident of crossing the U. of F. line more than once.

A large crowd should turn out to greet the opening of the gridiron season in Gainesville and to lend encouragement to the Yellow and Blue, which will conquer all other college teams in the State this season and set a new mark for the University of Florida.

The admission will be 25 cents, and the game will be called at 2:30.

In overstrained, injured and worn-out teams; in working ramshackled and worn-out wagons, in loss of time it takes you to go to market and to haul goods back from market; in depreciated value of your land and houses—in all these things, you are paying already the price of good roads. Yes, you are paying for good roads and using bad. Why not have what you are paying for? Which is more business-like, to pay for a thing and have it, or pay for it and not have it?—Raleigh (N. C.) DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Br'ght's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here is proof in the statement of a nearby resident:

Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, Madison avenue, Starke, Fla., says: "For some time I suffered from dull, nagging backaches and distressing pains through my loins. I could not rest well and arose in the morning feeling tired and worn out. My kidneys were sluggish and the secretions very unnatural. I at length procured Doan's Kidney Pills and they gave me the desired relief promptly. I have since been free from backaches and pains through my loins and my kidneys are normal. I am feeling better generally and give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit."

It seems that the railroad least able to stand a rate-cutting competition is always the first to engage in it.

The Vanderbilts and Goulds seem to take turns in making public their family scandals. Evidently their morals and their callousness to public sentiment are at an equally low ebb.

The recent revelation of municipal corruption in Chicago would seem to show a jury can scarcely err in bringnig in a verdict of guilty against any police or other officer who is tried before it.

Football is again taking the place of baseball and we may just as well get ready to hear of broken necks, limbs and backs, and bruises innumerable. Fortunately the football season is short, for it is deadly while it lasts.

In woman we may admire beauty, and pay homage to her talent, but virtue is her crown. With it she is rich though she live in humble circumstances, and without it she is poor though she live in a palace and has the dowry of a princess.

A lady prominently identified with the suffragist movement is credited with the prediction that a woman will be elected President of the United States within the next twenty years. Just fancy any woman placing herself on record as being thirty-five years or over. The Constitution saves us.

The Sun is in receipt of the first issue of The Orange County Citizen issued from Orlando, C. E. Howard, formerly editor of The Reporter-Star, is editor and proprietor. It is an ably edited and neatly printed eight-page paper of five columns to the page, and is bound to succeed with such a man as Brother Howard at the helm.

The business man who does not keep a good quality of goods, who does not display those goods to best advantage, and who does not let the people know what he has for sale, ought not to complain if he finds trade pass his door to enrich his competitor. It is the wideawake man who gets into touch with the public that draws business and succeeds.

In personal manners there is doubtless room for considerable improvement, but they are decidedly better than they were years ago. Education, a more refined taste along many lines, and more extensive travel have combined to produce this. If people are disposed to doubt this fact they have but to pause and consider how private and public manners were fifty years ago.

The immense temperance parade in Chicago was an encouragement to every lover of decency, happy homes and good order. It was all the more significant in that it was held in a city that has an unenviable reputation for vice and drunkenness. It convincingly showed that there is a powerful element making for individual and civic righteousness, and that with that element politicians will more than ever have to reckon.

THE SECOND DISTRICT FIGHT.

From all appearances it looks as if the voters of the Second Congressional district of Florida will have all that's coming to them in the primaries next year, in the shape of one of the most spirited Congressional campaigns in the history of the State.

There has been a decided opposition to the present Congressman from that district for some time, and his political opponents have decided that 1910 would be the best year to return Frank Clark to private life.

This decision on the part of Mr. Clark's opponents appeared to be unanimous, but having so easily settled this question, his opponents were next confronted with one that it appears is not so easily settled. In the selection of the man to oppose the present Congressman there has been a difference of opinion.

Editor Lewis W. Zim of St. Augustine was the first to announce his candidacy for the position. He was followed closely by Mr. Prouty of Miami, and now comes the announcement from Jacksonville that Jon L. Farris, late Speaker of the House of Representatives, would be a candidate. On top of all this the announcement comes from Tallahassee that R. Hudson Burr, chairman of the State Railroad Commission, will later enter the lists.

If all of these gentlemen stand by their announcements and "take to the woods," as Mr. Farris suggests, there will be no lack of interest in the Congressional campaign in the Second.

Of all the men mentioned there is not one that can cope with the present Congressman on the stump, and it is not probable they will agree to meet him in joint debate. Zim and Prouty will probably resort to the "still hunt" program, while it is possible that Farris, and Burr, if he should enter, would attempt to meet Clark in joint debate, and we believe that "meet" would about express the result of such meetings.

Another advantage that is given Clark in this line-up is that the three announced candidates against him all hail from one wing of the party in the State, and will necessarily, to a great extent, divide that vote, while he will receive almost the solid vote of the opposing faction.—Pensacola News.

Peace and goodwill among the nations is supposed to have been one object of the Hudson-Fulton celebration on the Hudson. That was fitting, as both men were the instruments of trade and commerce. But it is suggestive that the various nations that took part in the affair were officially represented by grim warships, and not by their merchant marine. It seems to be well-nigh impossible to have peace celebration without the presence of a regiment of soldiers or a warship or two.

By an ingenious arrangement of figures to meet their own desires it is very easy for people to delude themselves into the belief that the world will come to an end on a certain date. Considering how this old world continues to go on undisturbed in spite of the innumerable times that have so confidently been set for its break-up, the wonder is that the prophets of such woe do not get discouraged and quit. But they do not even in this enlightened twentieth century.

Former Senator Clark's son has invented a process to enhance zinc mining operations. Another welcome addition to the ranks of exceptional sons of the rich.

COTTON CROP RETURNS.

Progress of cotton picking during the first twenty-five days of September, including only twenty-two working days, added at the rate of $6,320,000 a day to the wealth derived from that crop alone. This is probably the most remarkable record in the recent history of cotton growing.

There remain nearly three months in which to complete the picking, and if similar progress is made even for another month or two the South will have vastly enhanced its purcchasing power over that of the corresponding period in any recent year preceding this one. Only in one earlier season, when the country had one of its largest yields of cotton, had ginning advanced so far as in the current season, which places the total thus far at 2,562,388 bales.

Apparently the season is not a backward one. Ginning establishments, of which there are some 27,700, must have been in a high state of activity during the whole of the month of September. Georgia to the date of report showed a larger number of bales than during any of the preceding four years, except in 1905, Texas, where 1,057,876 bales were ginned, exceeds all previous records, the highest of which was in 1906, when 1,008,856 bales were reported to September 25.

The favorable showing of ginning returns is largely offset by a most unfavorable condition report. In fact, there is something highly irreconcilable between the ginning of 2,562,388 bales of cotton by September 25 on the one hand and a condition report of 58.5 per cent. The latter figure would indicate an extremely small crop, whereas the ginning total seems to forecast a fairly good yield. The market is generally convinced that the condition report rather than the ginning figure is the better index to the actual situation. The cotton grower is less disposed to show his hand in the holding of his crop, while the spinning interests profess to believe in a lower level of fibre prices. Between these two lines of valuation the position of the cotton crop is still undefined within rather narrow limits. A crop of 11,000,000 bales is fairly well assured and but few people can be found who are confident of as much as 11,500,000 bales.

Capt. Frank Gosman, post surgeon, stationed at Fort Barrancas, has discovered a new disease, two cases having developed there of what is known as "creeping eruption," which are the first ever known in Florida, and the fourth cases to be reported in the United States. Recently two artillerymen on duty at the post appeared before one of the assistant surgeons for treatment for an eruption, which seemed out of the ordinary. Treatment was administered, but did not relieve the cases. Capt Gosman then began treatment, and found the cases to be "creeping eruption," which he states is caused by the egg of a horse-fly. Photographs were made of the arms of the artillerymen, and these with a report from the post surgeon have been forwarded to the department at Washington. The doctor states that authorities on the disease state that it has never before been known in this State.

Millions of Stomachs Refuse to Do Their Work Properly.

All over this broad land millions of stomach owners are being held in humiliating subjection just because they are so stubborn that they will not accept a fair, square and broad minded offer.

Life is short for all of us; it will be shorter for those who let their stomachs go from bad to worse.

ALABAMA'S GOVERNOR ATTACKS JUDGE JONES

FORMER HAS NO CONFIDENCE IN INTEGRITY OF LATTER.

Comer Alleges Roosevelt Intimated He Would Put Check on Judge Under Certain Conditions.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 7.—Governor B. B. Comer, in an interview for the press, frankly states that he has no confidence in Thomas G. Jones, judge of the Federal Court, for the middle and northern districts of Alabama, and makes a savage attack on the integrity of the jurist in answer to an interview given out by Judge Jones attacking the Governor some weeks ago.

The trouble dates back two years, to the time when Judge Jones enjoined the rate laws made by the Legislature, and the threats that were then made that no attention would be given to the rulings.

Roosevelt Threatened to Act.

At that time Governor Comer went to Washington to get President Roosevelt to take a hand against the rulings of Judge Jones, but was told, he says, that the President could do nothing, this being a matter for the courts, but the President did tell him, he said, that if Jones sent any State officer to jail for contempt of his court, appeal might be taken to him, intimating that he would help in this way.

"I have criticised Judge Jones," Governor Comer says, "and have stated that on account of his environment he was not fitted to sit upon the rate cases in Alabama."

Jones and the Law.

The Governor goes on to say that Judge Jones was an employe from youth of the Louisville and Nashville road; that many of the family are employed in the same way; that he was a protege of Milton Smith, president of the road; that he continued in the employ of the road until he went on the bench, and that probably Milton Smith helped to put him on the bench.

"With this environment and his disposition it was impossible for him to give the State a fair, impartial trial," the Governor insists. "The sacredness and justice which, by common consent, is accorded in every court, could not be conceded to his court in the trial of these causes."

Alleged Partisanship of Jones.

The Governor also says that the partisanship of the judge to the railroads impelled him to take as exclusive evidence the ex parte statement of the railroads, although he should have known such evidence to be questioned from the very nature of the case. Governor Comer charges "that it was very generally believed that by his invitation, he (Jones) had railroad employes come to his chambers, where, in the most spectacular manner, he assured them of the protection of his court."

Attorney-General and Jones.

The Governor also charges that the attorney-general refused to appear in the court because the judge, before hearing the side of the State, intimated his course in a newspaper interview. The citing of Solicitor Steagall for contempt because he talked back to a deputy of the Federal court shocked the Governor, who speaks of the "exaggerated egotism" of the judge and says that the talk of danger of civil war in Alabama was only in the judge's fevered brain.

Feeding Farm Hands.

Every farmer's wife knows what tremendous appetites farm hands usually have; but while they eat well they work well, too.

Here's a good suggestion about feeding farm hands. Give them plenty of Quaker Oats. A big dish of Quaker Oats porridge with sugar and cream or milk is the greatest breakfast in the world for a man who needs vigor and strength for a long day's work. The man that eats Quaker Oats plentifully and often is the man who does good work without excessive fatigue. There is a sustaining quality in Quaker Oats not found in other foods, and for economy it is at the head of the list. To meet needs of those in different climates Quaker Oats is packed in regular size packages and hermetically sealed tins; the latter for hot climates. 20

The old saying that when things are at their worst they begin to mend, has a good deal in its favor. Frequently the extreme viciousness of some conditions creates a revulsion of feeling, and reform is the result. This is just now being witnessed in two large cities on our continent. Chicago has been notorious for its moral and municipal corruption, but the conviction of one of its police inspectors for grafting and the good promise of reaching the "men higher up" indicates that the limit of endurance has at last been reached. Canada has always prided itself on the purity of its municipal government, but Montreal seems to have had as much municipal rottenness as any American city. Now the people of that city have voted by more than seven to one to adopt what is very likely the commission form of government. These reform upheavals are good, for they indicate the temper of the people, but reforms to be effective must be lasting.

THE STUPIDITY

or recklessness of purchasing real estate these times without first being thoroughly posted on it by an Abstract can only be appreciated when you have been "stung" with a defective title.

Why take such big chances when the cost of an Abstract is so small?

Our work is accurate always.

ADVERTISE IN THE SUN

There's a Reason.

Who Pays For Your Printing?

Poor printing is a detriment to any buisness, and is an unprofitable investment. Poor printing is usually paid for twice—once when you settle with the printer, and again in the injury it does your business.

GOOD PRINTING PAYS FOR ITSELF!

In the added business it brings, in the complete satisfaction you feel in sending out neat, tasty stationery, and its first cost is soon on the credit side of the ledger. Good printing is remembered long after the price is forgotten.

WE DO GOOD PRINTING

The Swine or the Flower?

Ah me! I saw a huge and loathsome sty,
Wherein a drove of wallowing swine were barred,
Whose banquet shocked the nostril and the eye;
Then spoke a voice, "Behold the source of lard!"
I fled, and saw a field that seemed at first
One glistening mass of roses pure and white,
With dewy buds 'mid dark green foliage nursed;
And, as I lingered o'er the lovely sight,
The summer breeze, that cooled that Southern scene,
Whispered, "Behold the source of COTTOLENE!"
